

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITY

Dual Diagnosis Practice among Counselors-in-Training

Link: https://utk.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_38bUOVu4Z4O23uS

$15 Amazon Gift Card available as compensation

You are invited to take part in a research study focused on understanding attitudes of counselors-in-training toward clients with dual diagnoses. You are eligible to participate in this study if you: a.) are enrolled in a CACREP-accredited master's program (part- or full-time); and b.) are enrolled in OR have completed at least one semester of practicum or internship.

Although there are no direct benefits anticipated for you, we hope that your answers will help us understand how counselor training impacts attitudes toward dual diagnoses. This information may also have implications for improving counselor education. Your responses may also provide you with an opportunity for self-reflection. The anticipated risks associated with the study are minimal. Some questions may lead to personal discomfort or bring up personal memories. You will be provided with information about accessing resources (i.e., the 988 Crisis Lifeline) in the circumstance that you experience distress.

If you would like to take part in the study, click the link above to be directed to an anonymous online survey. You will be asked to watch a brief video describing a client case, and then you will respond to a series of survey questions. The study should take between 20 and 30 minutes to complete.

If you have questions, you can contact the PIs: Dr. Jordan Westcott (jwestcott@utk.edu) & Dr. Jamian Coleman (jcolem73@utk.edu)

THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE
KNOXVILLE